Bouygues Construction University's training programmes are consistent with and complementary to the training programmes offered at entity level. They help you to develop your professional and managerial skills at every stage of your career: basics, professionalization and expertise.

Management Cycles

Management Cycle training programmes give you support when taking on management responsibilities and in your development towards director-level positions.

Professional Cycles

The professional cycles set out career milestones, as well as providing the keys to understanding your profession.

Training sessions are a mix of large group sessions and workshops, where participants share their stories and experiences, whether from inside or outside the company. The sessions favour an action-based learning approach and the application of concepts to professional situations, with the aim being that participants can take away practical skills for analysis, decision-making, management and communication purposes.
